

Congress: Don't Refinery Shutdowns Destroy Our Community

Good Jobs—Local Jobs—Strong Communities

The shutdown of the Philadelphia, Marcus Hook and Trainer refineries could devastate our entire region. More than 3,000 of us will lose our jobs directly and these shutdowns could eliminate more than 20,000 additional jobs.

Unemployment will spike, our school districts and local governments will lose funding and our local businesses will collapse.

Our elected leaders must get involved to stop this.

On Wednesday, February 15th we will be traveling to Washington, DC to call on our elected leaders to intervene to stop the shutdown of these facilities.

We'll be holding a press event at the Capitol with refinery workers, our families, and people across the region who will be impacted by the shutdowns and the spike in home heating oil prices.

We will also be scheduling meetings with members of Congress and the US Senate to ask them to intervene to save these refineries and holding demonstrations at Sunoco and ConocoPhillips' government affairs office to hold them accountable for what they're doing to our community.

Get on the bus!

We need refinery workers and family members to travel with us to Washington, DC to participate in the press events and the meetings with elected officials. Our jobs and our community are on the line so please make plans to participate.

Buses will leave from Philadelphia and Marcus Hook at 7am on February 15th and return by early evening the same day.
